MY AUNT NELL

When most people think of Christmas, they think of festive celebrating and thanking God for all that is good. But when I think of Christmas, I think of my Aunt Nell.

Aunt Nell was the perfect vision of a television aunt. She was short and plump, with her dark brown hair tied up in a tight bun. She always had a smile for you, and her eyes twinkled like stars on a clear night. When I was younger, going to Aunt Nell's house was a very special treat. Whenever you visited her, her house felt warm and comforting. She would have freshly baked cookies sitting on the kitchen table, where she always encouraged you to "have another".

But the most special thing about Aunt Nell's house was the small room in the attic. After we had told her everything about what we had been doing recently, and had our fill of cookies, she would give us the key to that magical room. We would then scamper up there as fast as our little legs could carry us. That room held all of the toys a child could ever dream about. As soon as the door was open, my two younger sisters would immediately rush over to the biggest box. It contained Aunt Nell's doll collection. Dolls from all over the world were kept there. There were little Dutch boys and girls, all wearing their brightly coloured clothes with their little wooden shoes. Next were the oriental dolls. With their long, flowing robes, a set of chopsticks in one hand and a fan in the other, they stared at you through slanted eyes. There were dolls ranging from Eskimos with their sealskin mukluks and their cariboo hide parkas, to little Mexican dolls that had beautifully decorated ponchos and wide sombreros.

My younger brother and I would go to the opposite corner of the room, where we would open another box. This one contained bright red toy fire engines. They ranged from water trucks to fire chief cars. All of them had flashing lights and blaring sirens. When our parents came up to get us so that we could go home, we finally realized how long we had been up there.

A little over three years ago, Aunt Nell found out that she had cancer in her lungs. The doctors told us that there was no hope. She would just slowly deteriorate until there was nothing left. But Aunt Nell wasn't about to give up that easily. She had stubborn blood in her, and during these times it really showed up. She insisted that she would be all right, hadn't she taken care of herself ever since Uncle Henry died? And that was fifteen years ago. It was only when the mailman found her lying unconscious on the living room floor that she was finally convinced that she had better go to the hospital. We visited her every day, and her room was always filled with fresh flowers from friends and relatives who wanted to show that they cared. I can remember the day she died. Four years ago on Christmas Eve, we received a phone call from the hospital. They said that she had asked for us, and they were afraid she wouldn't last until morning. My parents left my little brother and sisters in my care, and they hurried off to the hospital. The next morning at about seven o'clock my father returned to bring us to the hospital. Aunt Nell was still barely alive, but she was hanging by a thread. When we arrived we were ushered into her room.

I can vividly remember the scene. My father and my mother had been crying even though she had tried to clean up her tear-stained face. Aunt Nell was laying under the sheets and I noticed how frail she looked. Her face was almost as pale as the whitewashed walls, and her hair had mostly fallen out from the chemotherapy. She clung to my hand, and I could feel the bones through her skin. And with a great effort, she turned her head to look at me.

"Children," she said, "I just want you to know that all of the times you have been visiting at my house, it had been as wonderful for me as for you. Please pray for me."

And with that she closed her eyes, and it seemed as if her whole body relaxed. Her hand became cold, not clammy, just very cold. As I let go of her hand and turned away, I could feel the tears well up in my eyes.

When we finally went home, the presents were sitting under the tree, but no one felt like opening them. And every year at Christmas time, as I open my presents, I think about my Aunt Nell, and say a prayer for her. For I know that I will never know another person like her.

MARCO AND MOTHER

Marco's eyelids began to droop as he struggled to find that last ounce of strength. This was the final room and there wouldn't be anymore for several days. Mr. Riley had gone to a southern city to spend his Christmas and Marco was relieved of his house cleaning duties until he returned. Marco looked out the now sparkling window and onto a snowfilled town. His thoughts travelled to his mother whom he knew would be trying to find a decent meal for tonight. She'd be humming gently and making their small, cold house feel warm for his return home. Marco knew that her heart would be filled with great weariness and inner sadness as another Christmas came into their midst. His own heart could not even feel the excitement of the Yuletide Season; it was much more a feeling of dread.

The false smiles, and the empty "Merry Christmases" seemed to have replaced the happiness that he and his father and mother once shared. But this Christmas was different, for only he and his mother remained. He knew that when he returned home, his mother would let out a glee of fake delight, and rush on about how tonight was Santa's big journey. But by the darkening shadow of her eyes, he knew that Santa was no longer a part of their family. They had buried him six months ago in a half rotted coffin that cost them practically every cent.

Marco's eyes drew away from the window, and he realized that there was little Christmas spirit left without him. Even his mother had seemed to lose her eager youthfulness and Mr. Riley only really cared about his money which he gave so little of to Marco.

Marco looked out the window again and saw that snow had begun to fall. It was gentle and warming, much like his mother in a sense. Gentleness and constant kindness was always displayed upon her face. Marco thought of the times that his mother had tried to console him over the death of his father. Her silent prayers had given him strength and great courage because it was he who must support them and bring the meals at dinner.

Marco realized suddenly that it was getting late and his mother would be anxious for his return. Outside, the air was bitter cold and Marco buttoned his ragged coat right up to the top. Wind and snow beat at his face and soon it became obvious that they were in for a storm. His feet dragged even slower as he thought of ways to explain to his mother that he had no gift for her this Christmas. He couldn't even truly give her happiness and spirit Christmas brings because he no longer felt it within him.

Marco, so overwhelmed in sadness raised his arms to the darkening sky accusing God for his ungracious cruelty.

"It is you who had made my life and hers a misery. It is you I should hate." Marco immediately regretted his words, but didn't ask for forgiveness because he no longer cared what God thought.

As Marco opened the gate leading to his home, he put on a false smile determined to feel joyful.
"Mother, where are you; I've come home."
"Oh Marco, isn't it such a wonderful Christmas Eve!"

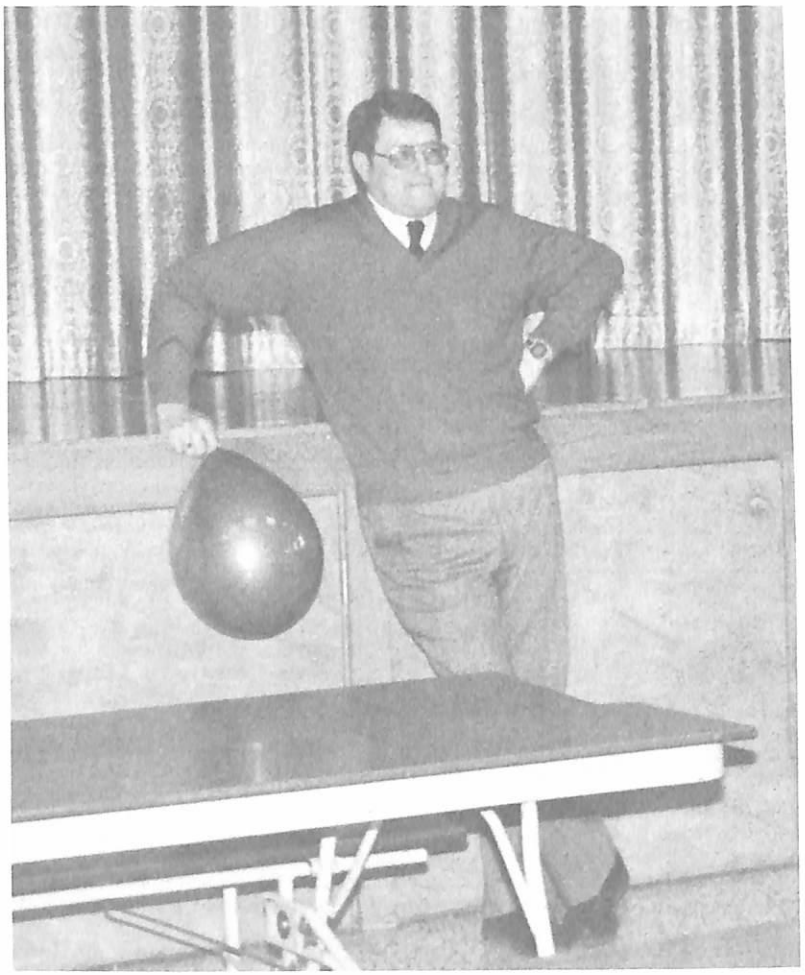

Her eyes were shining, but not from happiness; they were red and sore from weeping. Marco pretended not to notice and directed his eyes away from hers. Suddenly, his mother's happy face changed. The new downward creases of her mouth deepened and her eyes clouded with tears. Marco's smile disappeared and total silence came upon the room. Quietly, in a deep forced voice Marco's mother said, "I've nothing to give you Marco. We didn't even have the money for me to make you something. I'm so sorry; your father had been . . ." She stopped suddenly and looked at her son. He stood silently and raised his eyes to hers. In that split second, a young boy became a man.

Marco took his mother's hand and said, "We've hidden our unhappiness for so long and felt so much pity and sorrow for each other that we've forgotten that there's nothing more special than the love between a mother and her child. Our love, Mother, is our Christmas presents and spirit and it's all we need."

Mother and child clung to one another and a new hope and love was shared between them.

TEACHERS

Principal, Mr. Davis

Vice Principal, Mr. Farrar

Ass. Vice Principal, Mr. Jackson

The Yearbook Club would like to dedicate this page to the men who run our school.

These are the men who make sure we don't skip school or unnecessarily miss class. All too often we think of these men as "the bad guys", the guys who take the fun out of school. We forget however, that it is these same men who allow us to have sports teams, intramurals, bands, band concerts, noon and night dances, clubs, assemblies, bake sales, field trips, theme days, show movies and the list goes on.

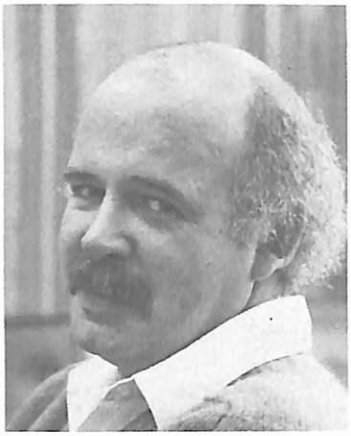

So, I would like to take a moment now to thank these men, (though we may not appreciate them too often), for doing the good job they've done in this year 1984-85.

Soon, many of us will be gone but this yearbook will be around for many years. In the years to come there will be many people who will look back through this yearbook and say "They really did do what was best for me, even though I didn't realize it them". Then they will say thank you.
So, on behalf of all those people,

"Thank you Mr. Davis, Mr. Farrar, and Mr. Jackson for what you did for us, we really appreciated it now!"

The Editor,
Louise Hodgson

THE PEOPLE WHO MADE HIGH SCHOOL INTERESTING

SAC President, Bill VanHeyst

The following pages are dedicated to the students who went that extra mile to make school more interesting for us, the student body. Thanks to the S.A.C., we had theme days, night and noon dances, a Mike Mandell show, and many other special activities. Thanks to the A.A., we had lots of Intramurals all year long, and thanks to the Class of '85, we had the Prom.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Another school year has come to a close. For some of us it will be our last at North Lambton Secondary School. We will take along with us both good and bad memories. North Lambton has influenced all of us, helping to make us who and what we are today. This book was created to capture some of those moments for future reminiscing and enjoyment.

I would like to extend my best wishes to those staff and students who will be returning next year. For those going on to post-secondary education or into the work force, good luck in all your future endeavors. May all of you attain what it is you are searching and striving for.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the Student Affairs Council, my executive and Mr. O'Donnell, our staff advisor, for all their hard work and dedication they have shown throughout the year. A special thanks goes to all my friends and teachers who make these last five years the best they possibly could be.

Sincerely yours
Bill VanHeyst
President of the SAC

S.A.C.

SAC EXECUTIVE
Murray Watson, Bill VanHeyst, Nicci Pedden, Mike Lithgow, Rob Crawford

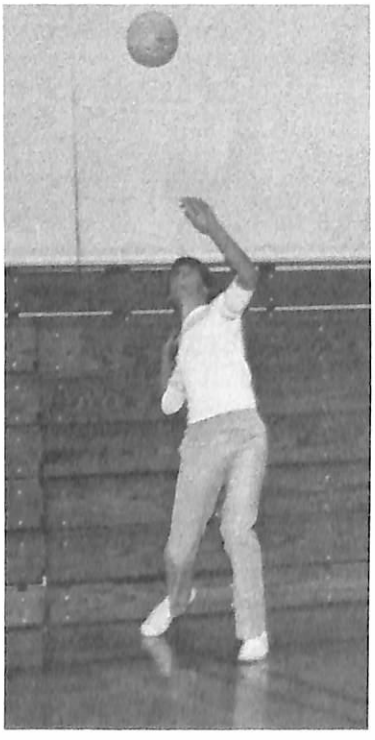

The Student Affairs Council plans and organizes activities for North Lambton students. They provide students with a chance to become involved in student government and the parliamentary system at work. Activities this year included night dances featuring the 88's, Skeemer, and Direct Drive, students were sent to a leadership seminar, and monthly noon dances.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Class of '85 involves itself visibly within the school to serve as good examples for junior students. Several members went to London to see Jeff Smith play hockey. The Class of '85 donated the John Prout Memorial Award for commencement. They also raised money through a raffle and bake sale to donate to the purchase of hockey shirts for House teams. The Class of '85 also formed this year's World Literacy Club run by Mrs. Elliot. The World Literacy Club raises funds to send to World Literacy of Canada which is an organization whose aim is to fight illiteracy. This year the funds are going to a literacy project in St. Vincent, to help the St. Vincent Union of Teachers to promote literacy there. The Class of '85 choose people to collect donations and also to count and roll the coins for deposit each week.

YEARBOOK CLUB

I would like to take a moment now to thank all the people who have helped put this yearbook together.

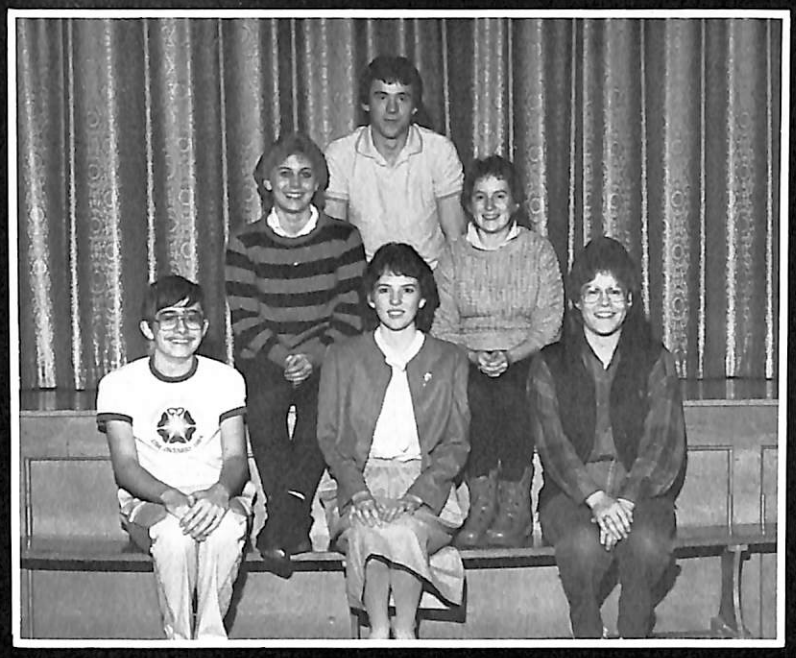

A special thanks to my assistant editor and friend, Brenda Willsie for putting up with my impatience to get things done, and for helping me with the yearbook and to my staff for their time, ideas and many contributions. I wish to thank Mr. Jensen for putting up with my constant bothering of him to get things done and to the secretaries for their patience with me while I kept bothering them with questions and bugging them to give me supplies etc. I would also like to thank my good friend and great photographer, Karen Bexton for taking most of the pictures in this yearbook.

Finally, last but not least, I would like to thank all my friends, both old and new, for putting up with me and my incurable smile!

May the luck of the Irish be with you (even if you arn't Irish)

Yours truly
Editor, Louise Hodgson

THE SPIRIT

1ST ROW Murray Watson, Jenny Henderson, Ann Stevens. 2ND ROW Kelly Douglas (Editor), Sandy Buchanan. 3RD ROW Mike Lithgow

The purpose of the Spirit newspaper is to produce a quality student newspaper written and produced entirely by students.

The club consists of Editor Kelly Douglas and a wide variety of other students who help in the writing and preparation of the paper.

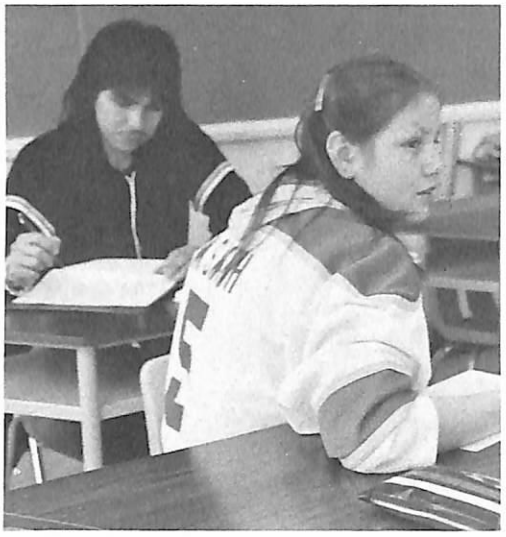

THE COMPUTER CLUB

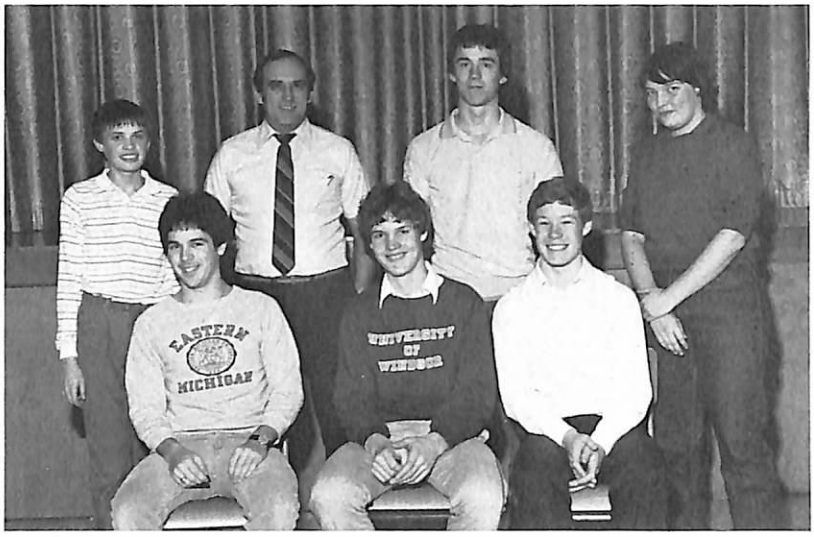

1ST ROW Jason Dodge, Gary Peters (Executive Director). 2ND ROW Murray Watson (Secretary-Treasurer), Steve Smejkal, 3RD ROW Martin Vrolyk (President)

The Computer Club promotes extra-curricular learning about computers and to encourage their constructive use. They worked the concession booths for several night dances. The Computer Club is open to all students at NLSS.

THE GAMES CLUB

THE DRAMA CLUB

CADETS

1ST ROW Steve VanKessel, John Mills, Steve Smejkal, John Monroe, Kurt Allen. 2ND ROW Pauline Bressette, Steve Feu, Kim McDonald, Geoff Weaver, Debbie Emery, Chris Kettle, Diana Douglas

The main purpose of the Cadet organization is to promote citizenship and leadership as well as learning skills and to meet people in a military environment. They have participated in several training exercises at Camp Ipperwash, where they meet and compete with Cadets from all over Ontario. The Cadets also take part in the Forest Remembrance Day Service and march in local parades.

SCIENCE QUIZ TEAM

Chris Carter, Martin Vrolyk, Mike Lithgow, Bill Vanheyst, Mr. Kalia, Michelle Muhleisen.

Members of the Science Quiz Team develop skills in all the fields of Science to express themselves through works, numbers, and other symbols. They also gain satisfaction from participating and from sharing in the participation of others. Several Lambton County Science Quiz Shows were televised on Huron T.V. Cable 6.

CONGRADULATIONS!
VOLLEYBALL TEAMS

The volleyball teams at NLSS are the best around! After months of hard work and practices, they compete in league play as well as invitational tournaments and work their way up to the finals.

The Junior Girls were WOSSA 'A' Champions this year. They won the Chatam-Kent invitational over 12 other teams, the Laver Invitational tournament, they were LSSAA finalists, 2nd only to Northern and the list goes on.

The Junior Boys after a lot of hard work and dedication, performed very well at the Saturday Invitational tournaments and won the LSSAA Championship. They then went on to win a silver medal at WOSSA.

The Senior Boys after practicing every night for months, won the LSSAA Championships for the 2nd straight time.

The Senior Girls had a very good year. They won the LSSAA Championships, then went on to win the WOSSAA Championships and then went to the provincial finals up North where they placed very well and had a lot of fun.

The Badminton Club has had a very successful year. Eight of our members represented Lambton County at WOSSA. Of these eight, there are only 2 graduating, hence the prospects for next year look very promising. Many of our members are first year players and with more experience should have considerable success.

Special mention should be made about Eric Brown and Rob Tubrett. They dominated the Jr. Boy's Doubles competition in LSSAA and were only the ONLY players from Lambton County, Junior AND Senior, to win medals at WOSSAA

A SPECIAL THANKS TO THE:

Mrs. Allison

CAFETERIA STAFF for the many hours they put in to prepare food for us to eat and for keeping the Cafeteria open all morning so that we could buy our breakfast of Chocolate Bars and Candy.

Mrs. Hutton

Mrs. Braun

Mrs. McCrae

CUSTODIENS for their many long hours spent cleaning up after us, (especially the last day of school!). Thanks for keeping our school clean and tidy inside and keeping the grass cut and the trees pruned outside to give our school a polished look. You've done a great job!

Mr. Clark, Head Custodien

Mrs. Jamieson

Mrs. Johnston

OFFICE STAFF for doing their many numerous tasks to help keep our school running smoothly. Thanks for taking those messages from our worried parents, and for believing our many excuse for why we couldn't come to school that day. You've done a great job this past year! Keep up the good work!

Mrs. Elliot

Mrs. McGregor

Laugh a little - sing a little
As you go your way!
Work a little - play a little,
Do this every day!

Give a little - take a little
Never mind a frown
Make your smile a welcomed thing
All around the town!

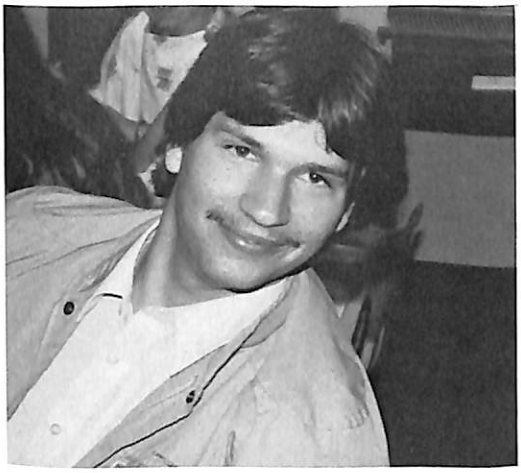

Laugh a little - love a little,
Skies are always blue!
Every cloud has silver linings,
But it's up to you!

FRIENDSHIP

I did a favor yesterday,
A kindly little deed . . .
And then I called to all the world
To stop and look and heed.
They stopped and looked and flattered me
In words I could not trust,
And when the world had gone away
My good deed turned to dust.

A very tiny courtesy
I found to do today;
'Twas quickly done, with none to see,
And then I ran away . . .
But Someone must have witnessed it,
For - truly I declare -
As I sped back the stony path
Roses were blooming there!

You and I

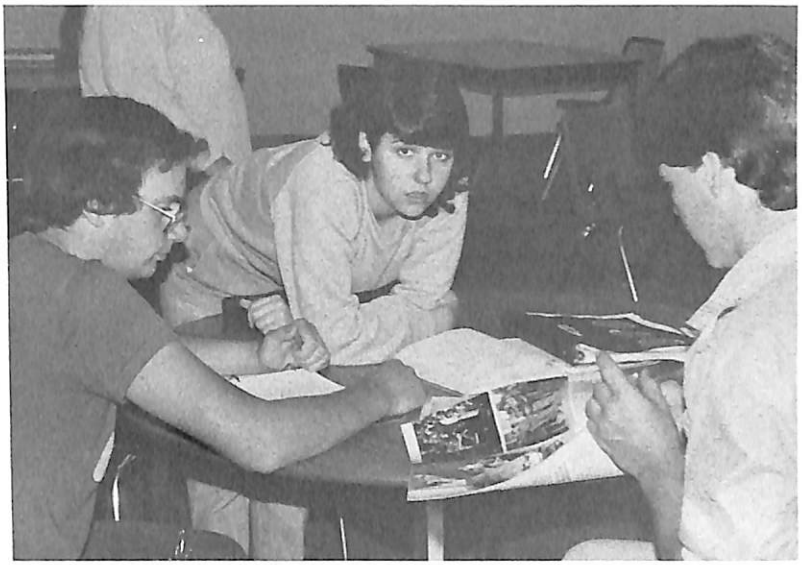

Where have you been these last few days?
I've really missed your thoughtful ways
When things go wrong and I don't know what to do,
I turn around and there's you.
A helpful hand to push me along,
To see above my problems when things go wrong.
You've always been there throughout the years
To share a smile, to dry my tears
To laugh at jokes when no-one else will,
You joyful laughter is with me still.
It seems that words are not enough,
To show our hopes, our joys, our trust.
And though we've been together for many years,
We seem to be living in each other's fears.
For the time has come to finally say good-bye,
Promise that when we part you'll never cry?
For only tears of joy are for you and me,
Now is the time to set ourselves free.
But when it comes down to leaving it seems,
We have to follow our hearts, our dreams.
And in the end our memories I'll never forget,
For, you know, we'll share them yet.

Our is a friendship that will last forever, my friend,
Please keep this in your heart - until we meet again.

WOODLAND NIGHTFALL

The church bell sounds the stroke that day is over
Another day, like all the others past;
The dark'ning crimson ring sinks lower still,
And I am left in solitude at last.

Walking through the forest glades at sunset
The blackened shapes of trees against the moon
The sounds of nature ringing through the silence:
The bullfrog's croak, the moaning of the loon.

The wind the heads of lofty timber swaying;
The myriad stars against a velvet sky,
Unchanging since the dawn of God's creation,
Like men, are born, endure and, fading, die.

The darkness of the night surrounds and cloaks me,
The rustling of the leaves provokes no qualm;
I feel as one with nature, and her stillness
In me instils the deepest sense of calm.

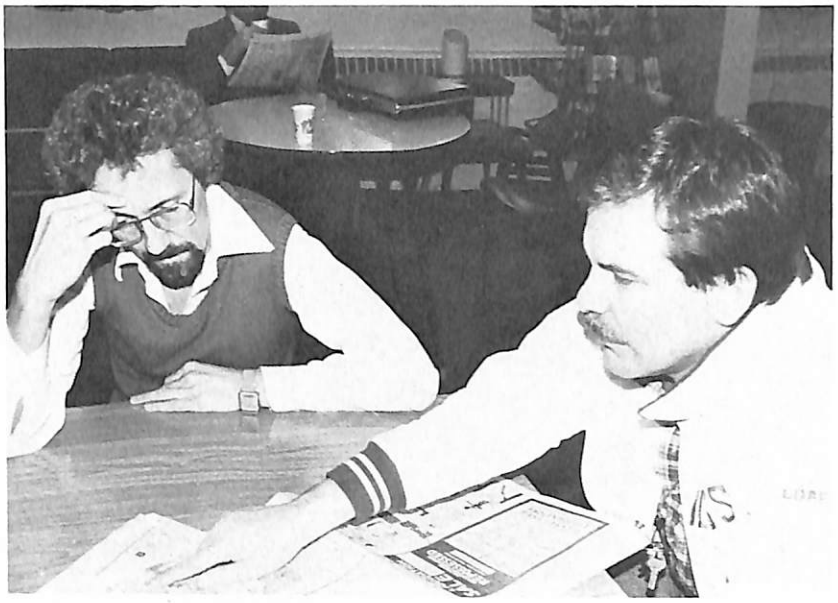

But my meditation to a close is drawing
An ending to the tranquil peace of night;
The sun's long fingers reaching o'er the treetops,
With the advent of dawn's early blushing light.

The radiant globe claims higher o'er the hillside,
Its golden flaming orb all glowing bright;
Far-off, I hear a lonely rooster calling
Fair day is risen, now departs the night.

Dreams

You're falling gently from the sky,
You're looking the moon right in the eye
You're chasing spies from far away lands,
You're touching gold with your very hands.
You're on T.V. with all the stars,
You're playing chess with a man from Mars.
You're climbing a mountain to the top,
You're on the edge about to drop.
You're watching the hours of life rush by,
The moon, the stars, the sun, the sky.
You're falling endlessly through time and space,
Where you've been, you've left no trace.
And just when you're about to crash - instead,
You're lying safely . . . in your bed!
